Jalapeño pepper

A good pinch of sea salt from the Mediterranean

Oriental spices to taste

Andalusian olive oil for a refined finishing touch

FEW WORDS WERE NEEDED

In 2008 Roberto Rodriguez Fernandez and Feikje Boertjens met in a flamenco guitar shop in Rotterdam where they were both working as teachers. They felt an immediate click playing together. Roberto's strong sound on the guitar and Feikje's filigree playing fell seamlessly into place, forming a colourful base for their voices to shine on. Soon they developed interesting ways to combine their musical personalities and started to perform as a duo.

After 3 years of playing concerts around the country, Roberto was asked to help create a team of musicians and dancers for a special act at the Netherlands' biggest electronic dance music festival: Mysteryland.

Aware of the challenge of providing the appropriate energy for this occasion, he decided to combine the duo with longtime scene peer Juri Kuefner and his fierce rhythm. After their show at Mysteryland, only few words were needed: Zarzamora had emerged.

Since then, they have played on a wide range of stages and events, such as Flamenco Dinamiko (GER), Dias Latinos, Flamenco Festival Rotterdam, Festival De Parade, North Sea Round Town, Tussenland and other exotic places as Camping Buitenland and De Lievelinge.

In 2020 they made their debut in Spain with a very well received performance during the Flamenco Festival in Jerez de la Frontera, one of the cradles of flamenco.

GROOVY FLAMENCO

Along side contemporary transformations of traditional flamenco songs, Zarzamora creates its own original music drawing influences from rumba flamenca, latin pop, R&B, reggae and oriental music.

With a small line-up of multidisciplinary and broadly oriented musicians, on stage Zarzamora manages to sound like a full-fledged band that naturally alternates subdued, intimate ballads with more exuberant and vigorous songs.

Zarzamora has the enchanting ability to touch and connect people, spreading its vivacious sound, groovy vibes and contagious energy.

AL-ANDALUSIAN INSPIRATION

In 2021 Zarzamora wrote a song about timeless love and sweet spring blossom scents. An old oriental melody inspired the band to write a fresh theme with an Arabo-Andalusian approach.
